

CRETE

Crete may be thought of in many ways as the spiritual heart of prehistoric Greece. It was on this fertile, abundant island that the Minoan civilisation flourished for some 2000 years from about 3500-1100 BCE. During this time the great Goddess-celebrating culture produced some of the finest artwork and figurines seen anywhere in the world, and enjoyed a peaceful, spiritual existence. The Minoan influence even extended to the nearby island of Santorini, where a Minoan city has been excavated at Akrotiri. On Crete itself, there is a wealth of sites, from the simple early villages and towns like Gournia, to the elaborate temple palaces of Knossos, Phaistos, Malia and Zakros. A time spent on Crete is to experience the depth and beauty of that civilisation, the power of which can still be felt in the very fabric of the island.

On this week's extension to your Sacred Greece tour, you will experience many of Crete's sacred sites in the company of Anna Filliol and tour guides Cheryl Straffon & Lana Jarvis. They have years of experience in organising similar tours, and are very connected to the spiritual vibrations and earth energies of sacred places (Lana is also an expert dowser). You will stay at Asterias Village hotel in Piskopiano, near Hersonissos, a well organized family owned business, established in 2003, offering a wide variety of services and facilities at a premium standard.

From here there will be daily visits to sites in the central and eastern part of Crete, where the ancient Minoan civilisation was at its finest.

BACK TO HEART TEMPLES

Friday Sept 23rd : Visit Gournia in SW Crete. After the very public site of Knossos, we journey back in time to the Minoan town of Gournia, where we can experience where the earlier peoples lived and connect with the peace and tranquillity here.

Saturday Sept 24th Heraklion Museum. This is a breathtaking visit to see some of the many fine pieces of pottery with beautiful sacred designs, the figurines, and fine gold and silver jewellery created by these people. There will also be time to visit nearby shops and cafes.

Sunday Sept 25th: We travel to Malia for lunch and a swim if wished. Then on to Malia temple palace site. Fewer tourists than Knossos visit this site, and it is possible to individually wander around the remains of the rooms and workshops of this lovely place, where the exquisite golden Bee pendant was made for a Priestess of the site.

BACK TO HEART TEMPLES

Monday Sept 26th : We travel high up into the mountains to the Lassithi Plateau, where we will visit the Dictean Cave. This cave was sacred in the Minoan period, and offerings were made here to the Goddess in a pool at the bottom of the cave. In mythology this was the birthplace of Zeus, where his mother Rhea hid him from his devouring father Kronos. The cave is open to the public, with good steps down to the pool at the bottom.

Tuesday Sept 27th : Our final day and a journey south to the temple palace site of Phaistos. Nestling on a plain facing the sacred mountain of Mt. Ida, Phaistos is a place to savour and to feel its past and present energies. Afterwards, we can visit the small village with its many ethnic shops and beautiful beach.
